Voyage to the stars is the theme for the 1967 VOYAGER.

Not only can astronauts explore the stars, but you as one of 541 students in this exploration can also extend your knowledge of them.

The stars are not only the luminous bodies seen at night in the heavens, but as symbolized here, they are the depths of education.

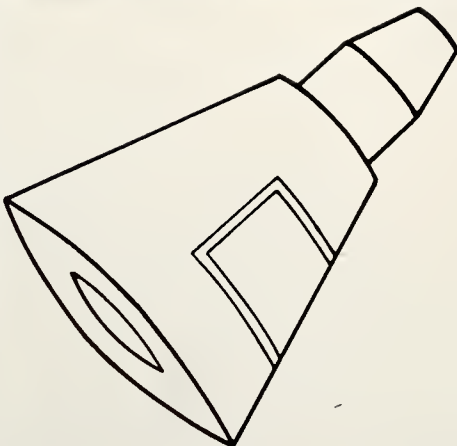

Numerous stars shine above, and for every star that shines, there is a field of education one could explore.

Everyone needs to "hitch his wagon to a star." They are there waiting for you. Are you ready for them?

Faculty And Administration

Guidance through our excursion comes from our 28 indisposable teachers and the administration. They lend a helping hand to us as we make our way from star to star. As was said before, everyone needs to catch a star, and the faculty acts as stepping stones through the galaxies.

Our Captain Guides Us To New Horizons

For the five years that Fairfield has been in existence, our principal, Mr. Richardson, has captained our ship and helped steer its students in the right direction. He has surely been an attributing factor in the success of our voyage.

Several of his many duties include conferring with teachers, giving morning announcements, counseling and guiding students, or presiding over assemblies. We are grateful for the friendship and guidance he has given us as the captain of our school.

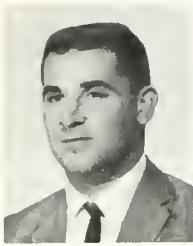

Our Staff Assistant, Mr. Jerry Koos helps Mr. Richardson by acting as first mate to our ship. His primary purpose and goal is to help the students in solving their problems and reaching the star of their choice through guidance.

Aside from guidance Mr. Koos aids Mr. Richardson by making morning announcements, supervising in the cafetorium, and solving the many crises that occasionally come up. He is certainly a valuable crew member.

Mrs. Steckler, Fairfield guidance counselor, battles low grades and high skirts.

Our secretaries, Mrs. Fredrick and Mrs. Lake, reflect the friendly and efficient atmosphere of Fairfield.

Mrs. Yager is constantly busy keeping order in study hall, taking attendance, or helping the secretaries.

Many Contribute To Fairfield's Friendly, Efficient Atmosphere

Mrs. Philbrook, our Educational Secretary, maintains her pleasant smile as she battles through the work given to her by the teachers.

Mrs. Stephens' house call is only part of her important job of Extension Worker.

Student office workers devote their study halls to the running of and management of Fairfield's office.

Mrs. Zirzow, our school nurse, helps and cares for all our little cuts and bruises at Fairfield. Her special concern is for students with contagious illnesses.

"Cooking is our business, our only business!" These words could come only from the chefs at Fairfield.

The huge task of keeping our school beautiful and in perfect working order is given to our custodians and matron. A tour of our school gives proof of the very fine job these people do.

Student leaders of Fairfield, our student council, represent the voice of the students in school affairs. The council met weekly under the supervision of Mr. Donlan, the sponsor.

Council Builds Leadership

The Student Council is a most important organization of Fairfield. It was organized to represent the entire student body, to solve their problems, look after their interests, and help better our school in any possible way.

Those elected by the students to represent them at Student Council meetings have served faithfully all year, benefiting others, improving their own leadership abilities, and setting a good example for other students to follow.

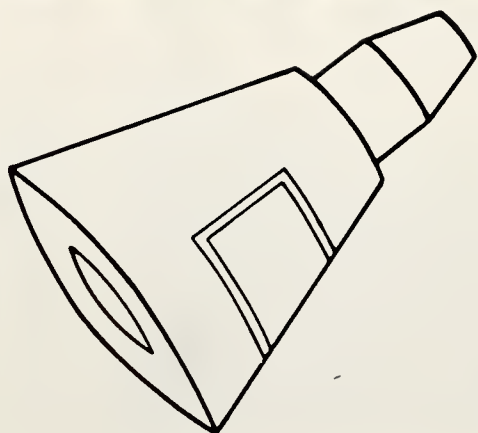

Mr. Donlan and Bernard Tew, council president, look on while Tina Schaaf reads the minutes.

Leaders of the council were Susan Stoakes, rep. at large; Nikki Spillson, v.p.; Bernard Tew, pres.; Tina Schaaf, sec.; Nancy Shifley and Lincoln Chapman, rep. at large.

Class Activities

Our cruise transports us to many different stars. From every star we gain much knowledge. Given the help we need from each visit, we are able to move closer toward our destination.

It may seem like Greek to some of them, but, all in all, most of the Latin students find this subject challenging and rewarding, although it is not a commonly spoken language.

Languages Enrich Our Excursion

Mr. Ehinger discusses the characters of GREAT EXPECTATIONS while the students listen carefully in English class.

Dinner in French? Here three members of the French class take part in a table conversation.

As students apply themselves to absorbing the stream of knowledge in Developmental Reading, many strange words and meanings cross their paths.

These Basic Arts Launch Our Journey

Students gain valuable experience in public speaking, composition, and grammar in Developmental Language. Here they listen attentively to Barbara Grabner.

While splashing paint and spilling water and creating new ideas, art students increase their artistic abilities and produce many masterpieces.

Our library plays an important role in learning, particularly in the areas of English and social studies. Mr. Brandon teaches the many uses of the library.

Social Studies: A Galaxy Of Knowledge

Students in Mrs. Stein's class are continually striving to focus their attention on the proper historical perspective in their social studies discussions.

Yes, we have a very intelligent class here, and the way they are going, they will make it around the world in 80 days.

The many new aspects of modern math baffle students in their attempt to master this subject.

Sciences Provide Lift-Off

Faster than the speed of light (?) are the minds of the students in Mr. Flohr's science class. They acquire new knowledge while delving into the basic elements of science.

Eager to be able to manage a home, the home economic girls learn some aspects of being a housewife.

Vocational Arts Provide Training

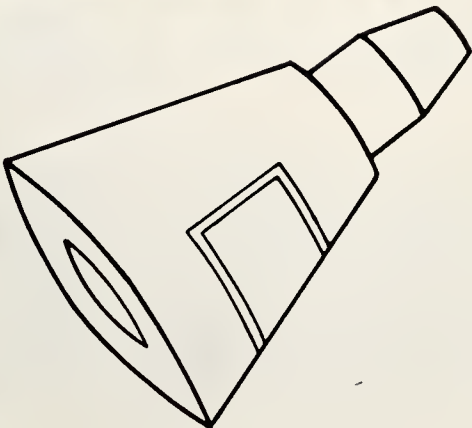

Amid cuts and bruises, the boys in shop are determined to learn basic skills of woodworking.

It looks like the students are eating good, hardy meals as they enjoy one of their favorite periods of the day.

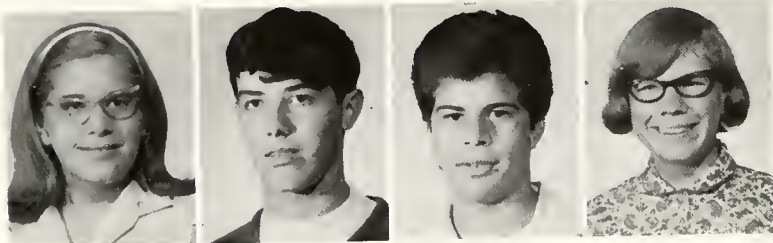

Student Pictures

As our journey continues, we are made better individuals by our academic and extra curricular activities that develop us physically, mentally, and sometimes spiritually. We have gone through much joy and sorrow, but here we are at another milestone in our lives, growing closer to our "star".

Representatives Serve Fairfield As Student Council Members

The ninth grade representatives comprise the largest number of students from a single grade in the council. With two years experience behind them at Fairfield, they readily accepted the role of leaders of the student body.

Eighth Grade Representatives—ROW 1—Connie York, Jennifer James, Ann Voorhies, Sue Schwalm, and Sheila Lapsley. ROW 2—Lincoln Chapman, Ken Crouch, Claude Jackson, Gene Myatt, and Mike Dean.

Although fewer in number, eighth grade council members also play an important role in student affairs. While following the lead of the ninth graders, they learn the problems involved as they prepare to assume the leadership of student council next year.

Seventh Graders Prepare For Leadership

These seventh grade students gain invaluable experience in the affairs of student government. They are Algerine Hicks, Jill James, and Janice Tharp on the bottom row. On the top row are Cheryl Rhine, Pam Bradley, Terry Weaver, and Sheryl Wyatt.

Although Mr. Jovi's seventh grade homeroom provided stiff competition, Mr. Eldridge's eighth grade took the honors in the annual candy sale.

Familiar Findings At Fairfield

Speaking Spartans represent the many clubs of Fairfield.

The participants of the science fair display their projects.

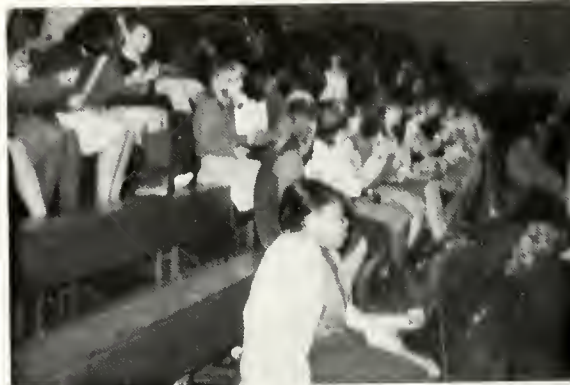

Our Student Council trims the tree every Christmas.

The intramurals program provides the students with exercise.

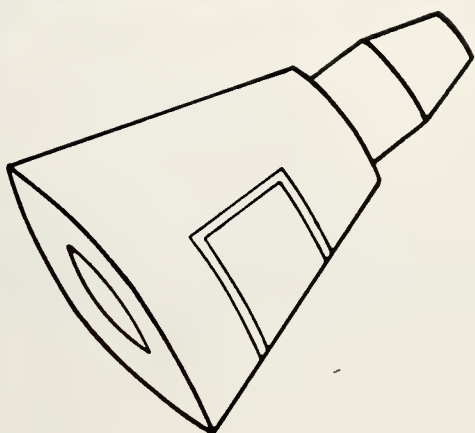

Social events enable the students to relax.

Enthusiasm is great at one of our exciting games.

Club Activities

Although we work hard and concentrate on reaching our stars, we do find time for enjoyable activities. Through participation in these various clubs, we develop our talents and strengthen our weaknesses.

Booster Club aids the school and faculty by doing many useful things such as grading papers, creating bulletin board displays, or selling tickets and candy at games.

Members of the Biology Club observe with fascination while Mr. Moore points out the various parts of the anatomy.

Would you believe a Poe or a Browning is sitting in this little gathering? Well, maybe someday someone in the Writing Club will rise to fame.

If hunting, hiking, trapping, and fishing sparks an interest, then the Outdoorsman Club wants you!

1401470

Car Club members learn the designs and mechanics of cars as they build different antique and modern model cars.

Ping! Pong! Players compete while others look on. Plenty of sporting activity is always found at meetings of the Game Club.

Members of the Art Club, sponsored by Mrs. DeHaven, test their art ability by making murals, drawings, or paintings. Their work often graces our bulletin boards.

Oops!! Dropped that stitch. It's a good thing Mrs. Thomas is around to help these girls learn the basics of knitting in the Knit and Chatter Club.

Embroidery Club members learn to make some of the many different stitches which end up becoming beautiful embroidery?!

Yearbook Club provides the students with a memorable accountance of school experiences at Fairfield with Tina Schaaf, editor, at the helm. Mr. Staggs is the faculty adviser of the VOYAGER.

Fairfields Major Publications Spark Interest In Students

Nancy Shifely, editor, along with the rest of the newspaper staff, see to it that each monthly edition of the Falcon flies into the hands of everyone at Fairfield, providing them with the latest news. Major editors are from left to right in the FRONT ROW: S. Dunscombe, J. Mann, Mr. Staggs, N. Shifely, A. Mid-daugh, and P. Wherry.

Members of the string orchestra learn to make their instruments sing sweetly under the direction of Mr. Foster.

‘Music Is Well Said To Be The Speech Of Angels’

Tra la la! The lovely voices of the Varsity Choir entertain the students at special programs several times a year.

The Band works diligently to provide entertaining music for Fairfield's home basketball games and special programs.

The Stage Band may be heard every Wednesday after school playing jazz pieces such as "Bitter Sweet Somba", and many more under the direction of Mr. West.

Under the supervision of Mr. West, the Training Band progresses forward to become our Varsity Band in the coming year.

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! Speaking Spartans improve their public speaking ability by preparing interesting talks and concentrating on their voices.

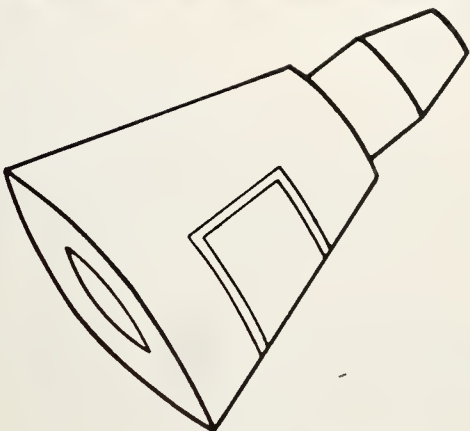

The Library Club learns more about our library by shelving books, checking books in and out, and aiding other students. Mr. Brandon is Fairfield's librarian and sponsors the club.

The Audio Visual Club is open to all boys who are interested in learning how to handle and operate the school's visual aid equipment.

Athletics

As we go through our voyage, we develop in many areas. One we might consider would be in the field of athletics. In athletics we develop an appreciation of good sportsmanship and competition.

Fairfield is honored to have five coaches, Mr. Vannatta, Mr. Jovi, Mr. Henschen, Mr. Eldridge, and Mr. Beal, that are "rough and wide awake."

Spartans Tie One, Lose Four, Reserves Enjoy 4—2 Season

Varsity team members were: KNEELING; Tim Carlson, Joe Curry, Bob Meyers, STANDING; Mgr. Bob Rannels, John Hayes, Rick Melser, Paul Wherry, Jim Doelling, Mr. Beal.

The ninth grade football season was somewhat disappointing. The team was small, but they worked hard. When the interim cards came out, too many boys had to leave the team. This resulted in too few members for a regular game.

Reserve team members were: KNEELING; Mike Helvie, Tom Fletcher, Larry Ortega, Dave Rietdorf, Jerry Lapsley, Mike Bixby, Dick Keirns, Tony Ortiz, Ken Crouch, STANDING, Robin

Front to back are: Connie York, Abby Eastes, Debbie Todd, and Sue Carlson.

Rah, yea . . . Fairfield!! This you heard many times throughout the year. Our team worked hard and certainly received praise, but who encouraged them on and boosted their spirits when they needed it? Who encouraged better school spirit and received results? Who else, but our great, hard-working, energetic varsity and reserve cheerleaders.

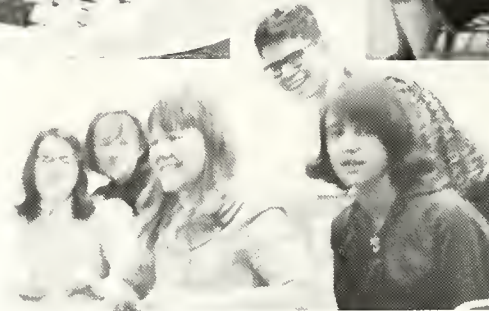

Girls in intramurals participate in active sports and improve their physical fitness while having fun.

These ninth grade girls enjoyed their intramural activities with Mrs. Murphy as sponsor. The high points of this program were the basketball games played by these "lanky" athletes.

Mr. Henschen and Mr. Smith directed a very active and successful intramural program for a large group of Fairfield men.

As this year comes to a close we find another phase of our voyage completed and our destination looming even bigger and brighter in the near future. Throughout the year many of our hopes and dreams have been fulfilled; the failures which we have had have helped to further prepare us for what lies ahead.

We hope this year has been a successful, rewarding journey for all of you and that it has taken you where you want to go.

And now, as we prepare to enjoy our vacation, the Voyager Staff wishes you good luck in the future and hopes that you will win the race to the star of your choice.
